AltaPointe's MAT program helps people reclaim their lives

Medication-assisted treatment (MAT) helps people living with alcohol use disorder or opioid use disorder reclaim their lives. Most people need help to change addictive behavior into non-addictive, healthful patterns. Through its outpatient MAT program, AltaPointe professionals work with individuals who meet criteria to provide medication assisted treatment in an outpatient setting.

Medications provided:

- Suboxone
- Campral
- Vivitrol
- Disulfiram
- Methadone
- Narcan
- Naltrexone

Medication-assisted treatment has been used since the 1960s to help people who are dependent on opioids. A combination of medication assistance and continued support and therapy, to include individual, group and family counseling, helps most patients live free of addiction.

What payment methods are accepted?

Patients may pay for services through Medicaid or other self-pay, sliding scale methods. During the initial phone assessment, our specialists review payment methods and billing procedures.

Most patients may qualify for free services.
